

MARCH 1 PROGRESS REPORT

Dear Reader:

You may have noted in recent weeks that many politicians are beginning to "hedge" on the matter of busing children and on other phases of the Black Power problem. They are beginning to hear from the voters.

This doesn't mean that the fight is over in America. Far from it. But this does mean that dim lights are beginning to shine for decency, law, order and human liberty. Whether these dim lights grow brighter or whether they sputter into blackness depends upon whether people like you and your Councilor staff keep up their pressure.

We are enthusiastic about the chances of getting our own press and printing operation to improve the Councilor, expand it, and get it out on time. Thanks to our readers we are already more than half way toward this goal.

Enclosed is a copy of the message we sent out that started this campaign for the press fund. We still need help in this matter so that we can help the nation. If you would like to be a part of this worthwhile campaign, we could sure use the boost! (See enclosure for two different ways to help.)

Sincerely yours,

Ned Touchstone, Editor

P.S. If you are one of those wonderful people who have already helped, you have no doubt received an acknowledgement and "thank you" letter before now. God bless you.
